

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Joseph P. Turner

Joseph P. Turner is a non-traditional student with a lifelong interest in science. A 1978 graduate of St .Michael's College in Vermont, he spent most of his career with Aetna Life and Casualty. In 1992, he left the company's agency automation division to dedicate himself to pursuing his dream of becoming a physician. Mr. Turner undertook an ambitious academic program, including original research in genetics, volunteered his time with Hospice of Central Connecticut and assumed responsibility for a project at New Britain General Hospital that combined his knowledge of information technology and interest in medical science. Accepted at medical school for fall, 1996, he plans to focus his career on primary care.
