Jennifer Williams

Dr. Jennifer Williams is a globally minded educator that works with classrooms of the world to connect learning and experience through meaningful uses of technology. She is a professor at Saint Leo University in the College of Education and Graduate Education, and she serves on the Board of Directors for the International Literacy Association. Jennifer speaks, writes, and consults on practices that develop global perspectives and support social good, and she is currently serving on the United Nations’ Global Goals Educator Task Force working to bring the Sustainable Development Goals to schools of the world. Her research interests include multimodal literacies, global education, and student-centered pedagogies. She’s inspired every day by teachers and students that are catalysts for making the world a better place! You can connect with Jennifer on Twitter at @JenWilliamsEdu.