PEGI DIETZ SHEA

Pegi Dietz Shea is the author of Tangled Threads and The Whispering Cloth. Her latest release, Stitch in Time is about the Hmong refugee, Mai, first introduced in her picture book, The Whispering Cloth. She is working on several projects, revising the novels: Snake Boy, Sister Spy, a YA novel based on the teen exploits of my aunt and uncle in the French Resistance during WWII; and The Jersey Devil, a novel set in the NJ Pine Barrens in 1979 when gambling returned to Atlantic City. Additionally, she is working with UCONN marine biologists on a series called Aquanauts: Teen Heroes of the Seas. Ms. Dietz Shea teaches writing at the University of Connecticut, the Mark Twain House and Highlights Foundation. She loves sharing her knowledge, energy, and passion for writing. Ms. Dietz Shea also love sports, travel and reading.
