

ANTH 373 – Methods in Biological Anthropology

Learn leading-edge methods used by biological anthropologists in different subfields including forensic anthropology, paleoanthropology, and primatology.

Students will learn how to examine the fossil record and primate skeleton to answer questions in the field of anthropology.

