

The Teaching of English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) is a profession that combines language teaching skills, linguistic inquiry, and enthusiasm for cultural diversity. Opportunities in TESOL are numerous at the local and global levels.

Since 1972, the programs in TESOL and Applied Linguistics at CCSU have offered a rigorous and well-rounded training in the profession, with graduates teaching in the field across the state and around the world.

Core Faculty:

Dr. Matt Ciscel

sociolinguistics, language policy, teaching methods

Dr. Leyla Zidani-Eroğlu

syntactic theory, Altaic languages, language assessment

Dr. Helen Koulidobrova

teaching methods, multilingualism, sign languages

Dr. Tatiana Luchkina

phonetics and phonological theory, language acquisition, multilingualism

Program Guide:

If you plan to...	MA TESOL	MA LPP	Post-bacc	OCP	see SDE
Teach ESL in public K-12 schools in CT (without current teacher certification in another subject area)	*				*
Teach ESL in public K-12 schools in CT (with current teacher certification in another subject area)	*			*	**
Teach ESL in CT public adult education programs				*	**
Teach ESL in community colleges and universities				*
Teach ESL in private language institutes in the USA				*
Teach English abroad (all types)	**
Work in a governmental office or agency on language related issues		**
Administer multilingual processes in an international non-profit organization		**
Manage multilingual resources for an international corporation or venture		**

* = recommended/helpful  = strongly recommended/required

Contact:

Dr. Matt Ciscel

Program Coordinator

ciscelm@ccsu.edu

860-832-2749

Dr. Melissa Mentzer, English Dept Chair
Englishmailbox@ccsu.edu, 860-832-2795

See the detailed Program Handbook on our website:

<https://www.ccsu.edu/english/tesol>

Programs in at

Central Connecticut
State University

