What are you awesome at:

I am awesome at listening and offering words of encouragement. I love reviewing and editing papers! I really like finding the best structure and organization for literature reviews, research papers, and research proposals. I know looking at a blank page and not knowing where to start can be very daunting. I'm patient and want to help you recognize and enhance your strengths, while supporting your weaknesses.

Personal Statement:

I am so excited to be a resource for you and can't wait to guide you in the right direction! College courses can be incredibly overwhelming and it's more than okay to ask for help – that's what we're here for!

What are you awesome at:

Listening and communicating in ways specific to each individual. I feel confident that I can help students learn specific to their learning styles. I am very organized and hardworking when it comes to papers, exams, quizzes, studying, etc., and I want to pass these skills forward to those in need!

Personal Statement:

Balancing stress, time management, and outside responsibilities during college is tough. I am here to help you succeed through these hard times. No question is a stupid question!

What are you awesome at:

Listening, understanding, communicating, and having patience. I can help students better understand material and establish stronger study habits that will help when it comes to exam time! I also enjoy reading research papers and can assist students struggling with flow, organization, and APA formatting in their papers.

Personal Statement:

While there are other important life events that take place during your college years, it can be difficult to find a balance with school. With so much going on, it may be hard to fully understand material, which overall makes certain subjects feel impossible to succeed in. I will help you overcome your struggles and tackle the topics that seem scary or challenging!

What are you awesome at:

I am awesome at encouraging others to see their strengths and motivating them to do the best they can. I love reading research articles and can help others find the best resources for papers, literature reviews, and/or research proposals. I am a great listener and can help guide others to add value and meaningfulness into anything they want to accomplish.

Personal Statement:

I know what it is like to feel frustrated when you are unable to grasp a certain concept or feel defeated when you have tried every possible way to tackle your assignments or exams, only to be stumped. I am here to build your confidence in how you study and learn. Together we can find ways to overcome obstacles and use our curiosity and willingness to tackle all the questions we have.

What are you awesome at:

I am very flexible when working with different kinds of people and focusing on smaller goals that lead to a larger outcome. I want to act as a resource for professional and academic reasons, as well as someone that you can just speak comfortably with.

Personal Statement:

Psychology is a fascinating, but challenging major. I'm passionate about this subject and part of that passion comes through in wanting to share my knowledge with others and to help others explore psychology. My goal as a tutor is to make the courses you take more approachable and easier to understand and support your college experience as you find your own passions.

What are you awesome at:

I am awesome at answering questions and helping out by directing people to achieve and understand different kinds of material. I am very straightforward when it comes to what an assignment/paper may need depending on the course/professor taken. I am always happy to help and can take however much time needed on anything a student may have a hard time grasping. While I might not know it all I will always put in effort to try and maybe even learn something myself. Whether it's needing assistance or overall support throughout the semester I will gladly be there to help!

Personal Statement:

Great notes that are taken and anything a professor may provide through lectures, directions, outlines, notes, and even blackboard for your use is crucial to achieving the best results. Even though it may seem a lot right now it's good to take it one day at a time and the semester will fly by. All and any questions are allowed, and this will be a safe space to learn and grow. I am so excited and honored to take this journey with you all!
